Fort Worth Museum of Science and History Presents a Viewing of a Partial Solar Eclipse

The Fort Worth Museum of Science and History is bringing together local Space Science advocates and the Fort Worth Astronomical Society to help the public understand more about the moon. On Thursday, October 23rd, from 2:00pm to 7:00pm, CST, audiences have a chance to observe a partial solar eclipse at the museum.

Lunar expert Ken Murphy of The Moon Society will be on hand to answer questions about Moon exploration past, present and future.

The event is free and will take place in the member parking lot at the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History. More information about this event and other star parties can be found on the museum website.

About the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History

Established in 1941, the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History, anchored by its rich collections, is an institution dedicated to lifelong learning. The Museum engages children and adult guests through creative, vibrant programs and exhibits interpreting science and the history of Texas and the Southwest. The new $80-million campus opened in November 2009 marking the culmination of an extensive multiyear fundraising campaign. The Museum is open daily, except Thanksgiving, Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. For more information about the Museum, visit www.fortworthmuseum.org or call 817-255-9300.
